Timber Buildings

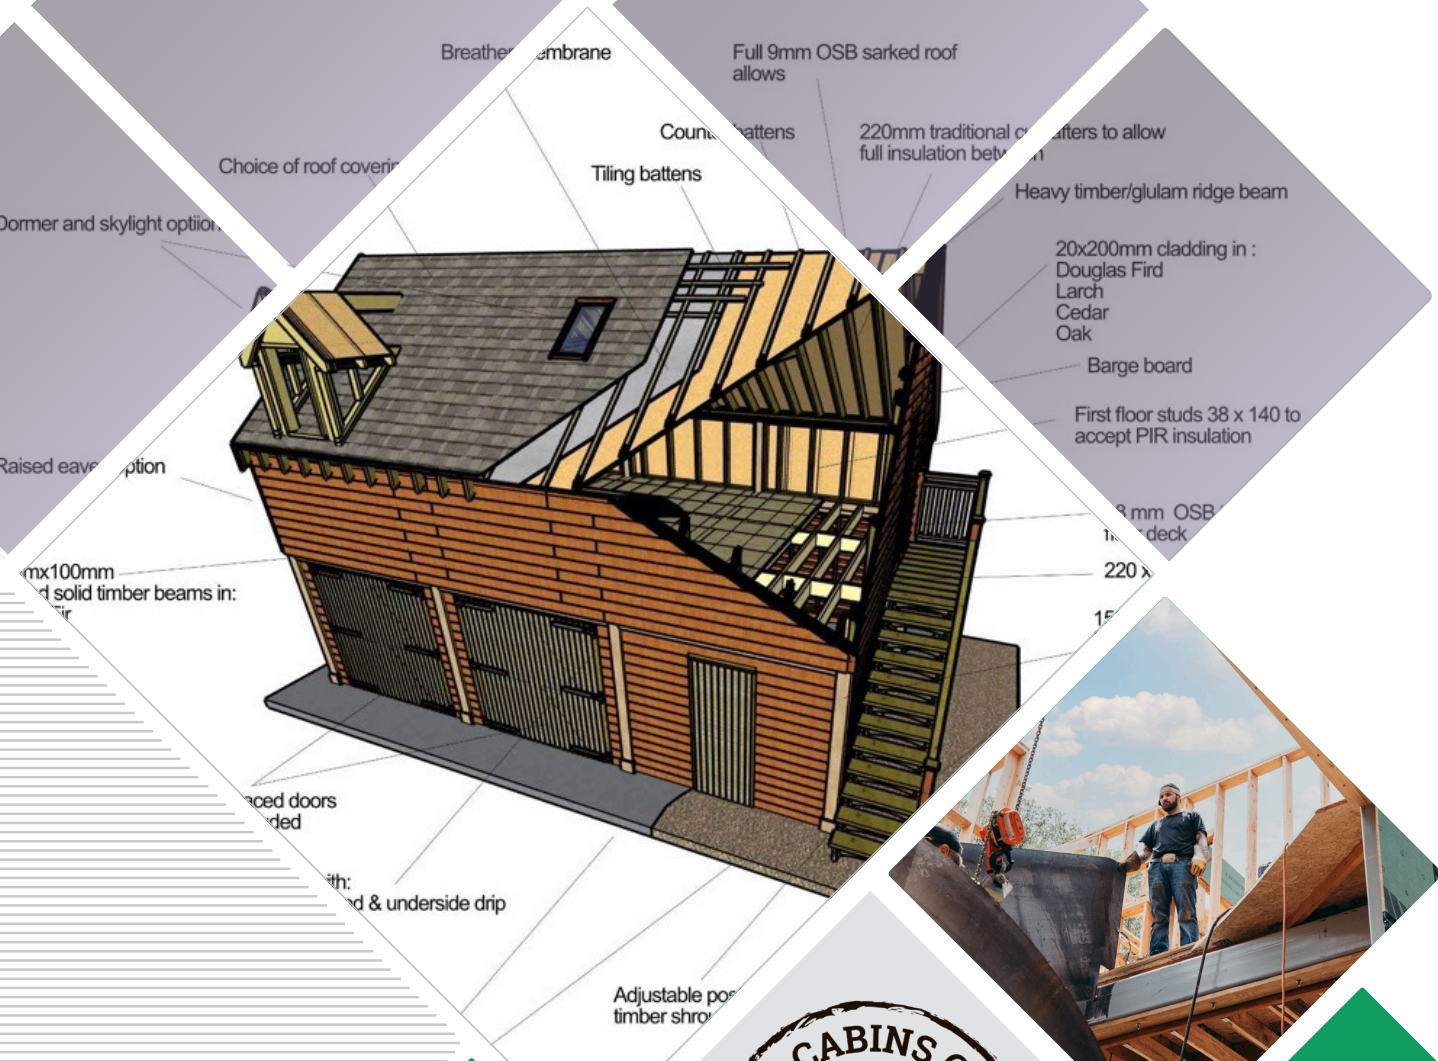

Timber frame buildings make beautiful extensions and homes which add value, provide more usable floor space and support the environment.

The timber frame carries the load of the building to the foundation so you can rely on it for strength and sustainability.

Meanwhile the outer skin or cladding is a matter of choice and aesthetics. Whether you decide on brick, stone or lightweight cladding such as timber boarding, tile hanging or render, your home or extension is unique.

The ability to incorporate thermal insulation between external walls and the membrane makes timber frame buildings the ideal choice in these times of rising energy prices.

As the UK faces a housing shortage, timber frame buildings are quicker to construct than the traditional brick build and are equally suited for apartment blocks as well as single homes and extensions.
